THEY NEVER FAIL

That is What They Say About Them in Norway, and It Is Therefore, Reliable.

Another proof, more evidence, Norway testimony to swell the long list of local people who endorse the old Quaker remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this convincing endorsement of that remarkable preparation:

Mrs. Julian Brown, Danforth St., Norway, Me., says: "I suffered from rheumatism for more than five years. I was treated by physicians and I took a great many remedies in an effort to find relief, but to no avail. About three months ago I was reading the testimonials given by different persons who had used Doan's Kidney Pills and I decided to give this remedy a trial. I procured a supply at Stone's drug store and I am now using my sixth box. Doan's Kidney Pills have done for me what no other treatment or remedy had previously accomplished, and I feel that it will only be a short time before I am entirely cured. I cannot recommend this excellent preparation too highly."

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

ington, D. C., was re-elected financial secretary to the trustees.

Tuesday evening, before a numerous company, there were held in the chapel,

the literary prize contests. This is a feature which was inaugurated and yearly continued by the lamented Hon.

H. Chapman of Harrison, Hon. J. Carroll Mead and George H. Greene of

The graduation exercises were held

Wednesday forenoon in Academy hall.

As usual, the seating capacity was taxed to the utmost limit. The hall was its head; his staff; the graduating class,

Fondly still we'll cherish,

Where so'er we roam.

School closes here this week, with interesting recitations and songs the last day.

George Osgood and brother and Bolen-tine, are working pulp wood for C. N. Kimball.

We shall miss the ones who lived in the Joseph Holt house. Since Mr. Holt's death, his wife has sold the farm, and the many different authors showed. Her line of argument was good and her wide range of reading enabled her to round out an essay that was interesting from start to finish.

John Kemp Pottle presented the gifts and it is needless to say that his choice in each case was most wise. And the recipients of his gifts will always remember John for his broad smile and smooth words, as he made each senior happy with an appropriate gift.

The Valedictory was an essay, "Our Ideals," was given by Allen, Eveleth Barker. Miss Barker's essay was literally a gem, and continued several bits of thought that would do credit to an older person. Her leave taking of superintendents, teachers and pupils was in good taste.

The diplomas were presented by Supt. Dr. Holden, and the program was brought to a close with the singing of the class ode.

The exercises were followed by a ball.

Memorial Day.

Sunday, June 19th, was observed as Memorial day by Craigie Lodge, Knights of Pythias and Craigie Temple, Pythian Sisters. The two orders met at Sons of Temperance hall at 10 a. m. A detail of four Knights was sent to perform the service at the High Street cemetery.

At 10:30 the Knights and Sisters marched to Riverside cemetery, where the memorial service of each order was carried out. At close of service the orders marched into the Congregational church and listened to a most excellent sermon by Rev. Mr. Baldwin.

Rev. Mr. Robbins made the opening prayer and also the Scripture reading. Mr. Baldwin's text was from Mark 10: 43 to 45 verses, and the pith of the text was, "That he who serves shall be first," illustrated most aptly by the life of Christ, also by the life of the Disciples, and many more of modern times, whose contribution to the world's work has been of inestimable value. Mr. Baldwin very forcibly brought forth that saying that no one seems to be fully appreciated until he is dead. He also spoke of our world made beautiful by our enjoyment, and of the pleasure that can be derived from each season, and yet our world is only a small spoke in the gigantic system created by this Supreme Genius. And amid everything beautiful and bright there is a struggle for existence, and the picture of the mass of suffering humanity brings a note of sadness into an otherwise perfect creation.

Mr. Baldwin outlined the foundation and growth of Pythianism and of the Pythian Sisters. He spoke of that wonderful friendship existing between Demon and Pythias, and of the beautiful principles of the order. The complaints again the order come from the ignorance of those upon the outside, and that the order worked in sympathy with and not in opposition to the church.

The order K. of P. is the defender of whatever is good, clean and wholesome. Mr. Baldwin in closing gave the members some very pertinent advice, to cultivate the friendship of Him, who seeks closer than a brother, and so live that when the summons comes we may be ready to enter the Supreme Lodge above.

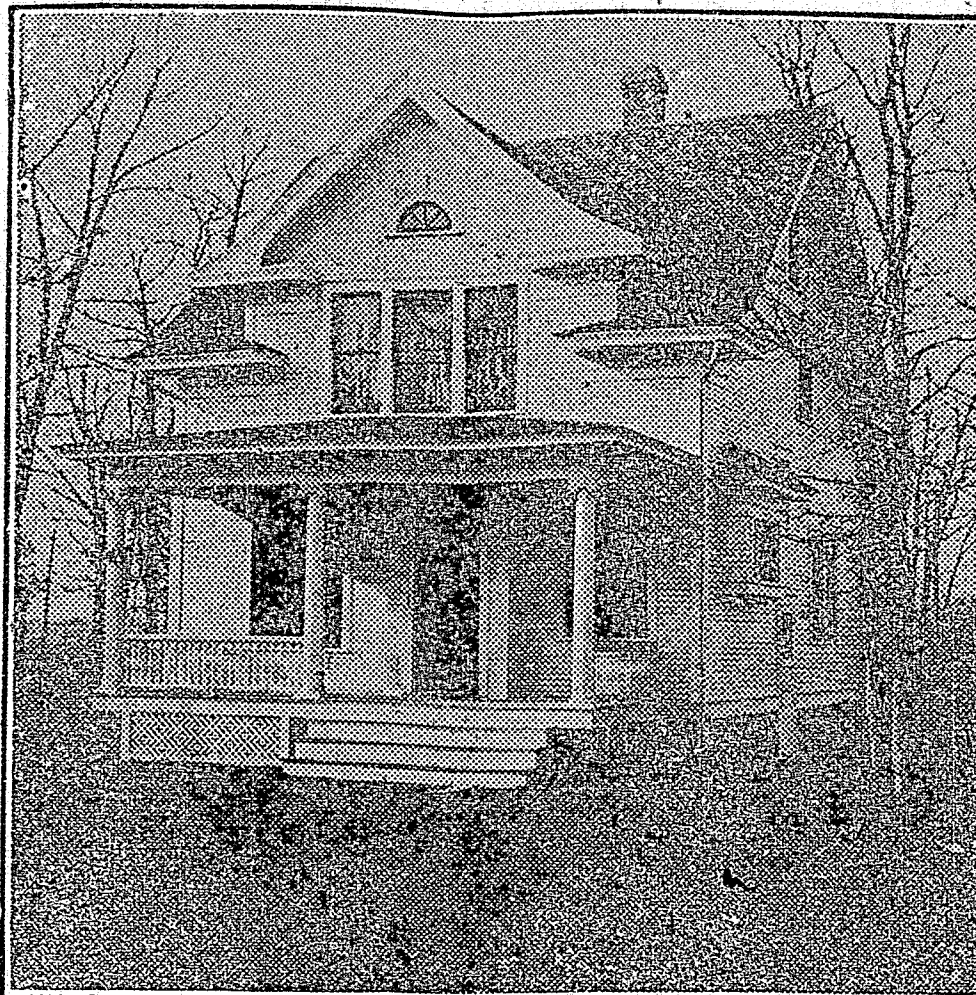

Willie Bean met with an unfortunate accident on Saturday. His right hand was drawn into a carding machine. The fingers and hand were badly lacerated.

Rev. Mr. Baldwin and family moved into town, Wednesday, and are occupying the Congregational parsonage. Mr. Baldwin will remain with us during the summer.

ADAPTABILITY OF ALFALFA.

Crops Produced in Most Climates of the United States.

While experts have been declaring that alfalfa would grow only in certain soils and in certain climates, it has proved adaptability to nearly all climates and almost all soils. It produces with a rainfall as scant as four inches and in the Gulf States flourishes with sixty-five inches. It gives crops at an elevation of 8,000 feet above sea level, and in southern California it grows below sea level to a height of six feet or over, with nine cuttings a year, aggregating ten to twelve tons. An authenticated photograph shows a wonderful alfalfa plant raised in the irrigated desert of southern California, sixty feet below sea level, that measured considerably more than ten feet in height. Satisfactory crops are raised, but on limited areas as yet, in Vermont and Florida. New York has grown it for over 100 years in her clay and gravel. Nebraska grows it in her western sand hills without plowing, as does Nevada on her sagebrush desert. The depleted cotton soils of Alabama and rich corn lands of Illinois and Missouri each respond generously with profitable yields to the enterprising farmer, while its accumulated nitrogen and the subsoiling it effects are making the rich land more valuable and giving back to the crop worn land the priceless elements of which it has been in successive generations despoiled by a conscienceless husbandry.

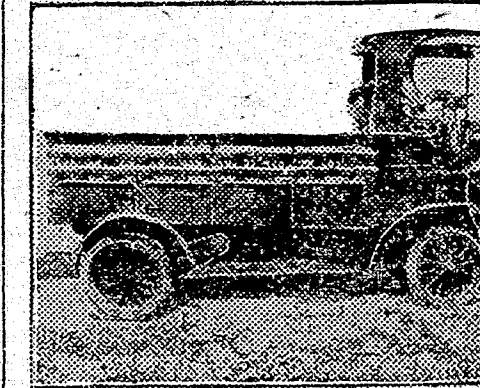

Farm Value of Toads.

A naturalist has found some very interesting facts concerning the diet of the toad, and it is found that it is a benefactor of the farmer and gardener. It eats caterpillars and cutworms, beetles, sowbugs, snails, grasshoppers, moths, wireworms and potato bugs, all of which damage a farmer's crop or his goods to a serious degree. In the stomach of one toad were found seven thousand-legged worms. In another were thirty-seven tent caterpillars, in another sixty-five gypsy moths were found and in still another fifty army worms. It is said that eighty-six housewives have disappeared down the throat of one toad in less than ten minutes, and the record of stuffing is held by another, who was still hungry after consuming ninety bugs. According to this observer, in ninety days a single toad may destroy 1,160 cutworms, 1,800 thousand-legs, 2,100 sowbugs and 300 weevils.

Farm Truck by Automobile.

It is interesting to know that many of the conveniences and helps which were supposed to belong to city society are now making their way into the country. Water fixtures in the houses, steam and hot water heaters and many other things which fifty years ago were rarely found outside a large town are now common in many farmhouses. Machinery which was thought to be of practical service only on smooth city streets may now be found in the country. The picture shows a large auto-truck which does the business for a fruit farm. It is shown in actual use at Greenwich, Conn., carrying peaches to market some eight miles distant. This machine has a fifty horsepower engine, its maximum speed is fifteen miles an hour, and its approximate cost is $4,000. The superintendent is much pleased with the machine in every way and says that it is very practical and serviceable and takes the place of at least six horses. Forty-three barrels of apples can be carried with perfect ease. It will carry a hundred-bushels of potatoes. In the load shown here there are 100 baskets of peaches, and considerably more could have been added. Both trips to market are made to count, as, returning, the truck takes back supplies for the farm and its operation. Such a truck as this will climb any grade that is found on traffic thoroughfares, and ordinary mud has no terror for it at all. By means of trucks like these markets are brought close to the farmers, thus insuring a quick disposal of the farm products. Much labor is saved, and much more work can be accomplished for less money.

Weeding Out Unprofitable Cows.

Dairy farms are continually advancing in value, which should be regarded as part of the profits. Grain farming is hard on the land.

With the case in test it will be possible to weed out the poor cheese cows on the same principle used in the Babcock butter test to weed out the poor butter cows. Instead of keeping cows for cheese which average 70 pounds of casein per 100 pounds of fat, one may breed cows that will produce milk containing close to 100 pounds of casein to 100 pounds of fat.

OXFORD.

O. H. S. Graduation.

The graduating exercises of the class of 1910, O. H. S., were held Friday evening in Robinson hall. The hall was made attractive for the occasion, the work of decorating being done in a most artistic manner. The class colors were green and white, and the decorations included those colors. The wall at the back of the stage was banked with green boughs and the class motto, "Olimb though the rocks be rugged," the letters being of white, was placed across the top of the green bank.

At 8:30 the hall was filled to overflowing, and the entire student body marched to the seats reserved for them at the front of the hall. James Kay, a Junior, acted as marshal and under his guidance not a hitch occurred in the marching order.

The stage was occupied by the Superintendent of Schools, E. B. Holden; the Rev. Mr. Robbins, pastor of the M. E. church; the principal of the high school, John L. Dyer; the assistant, Lena G. Perkins; and Florence Eaton, teacher of elocution. The Swastika orchestra of South Paris furnished music for the occasion.

The program opened with music followed by prayer by the Rev. Mr. Robbins. Another selection by the orchestra and then Harry Levi Twitchell gave the Salutatory, "Athletic Sports in Our High Schools." As Harry is fond of athletics, he evidently was conversant with his subject and he made a strong plea for a gymnasium as a necessary adjunct to O. H. S.

The essay, "The Stage Coach and the Locomotive," by Alice Dorman Brett was a neat bit of wording. Miss Brett traced the methods of traveling from the most primitive means of transportation to the present time. Her description of the first locomotive, "Tom Thumb," was very interesting as well as accurate.

"The Class History" by Ethel Mae Twitchell was well done. Miss Twitchell not only gave the history of the present members but also those who dropped out during the four years' course. And her remarks upon their vocations and peculiarities were very apt and brought her round to the present.

Another selection by the orchestra was followed by "The Class Prophecy" by Ethel Mae Brett. Miss Brett with a most vivid imagination and with the eyes of a seer peered into the future and apparently settled the fate of the entire class. The only possible slip-up in her prophecy is the fact that present indications do not bear out the statement that Allena Barker will remain an old maid.

The essay, "Wonders of Modern Warfare," by Pearl Beatrice Locke was a realistic description of the giant strides forward in the development and improvement of weapons, both offensive and defensive, since gunpowder was invented. Miss Locke handled her subject in an able manner and seemed perfectly conversant with the different patterns and makes of guns.

The essay, "The Novel as a Reformer," by Jennie Vivian Lebroke was something entirely new and original. Miss Lebroke is evidently a reader as her acquaintance with and quotations from the many different authors showed. Her line of argument was good and her wide range of reading enabled her to round out an essay that was interesting from start to finish.

John Kemp Pottle presented the gifts and it is needless to say that his choice in each case was most wise. And the recipients of his gifts will always remember John for his broad smile and smooth words, as he made each senior happy with an appropriate gift.

The Valedictory was an essay, "Our Ideals," was given by Allen, Eveleth Barker. Miss Barker's essay was literally a gem, and continued several bits of thought that would do credit to an older person. Her leave taking of superintendents, teachers and pupils was in good taste.

Hebron Academy.

The baccalaureate sermon at Hebron academy Sunday was delivered by Rev. M. J. Twomey of Portland. Mr. Twomey chose for his text the words of Peter, 1st chapter, 5-7 verse inclusive.

"We must have the virtue of moral courage for the world stands in dire need of it," he said.

"We must seek at every time and in all ways and places to add to our knowledge, for where knowledge grows, superstition gives way to it."

"A further necessary characteristic is godliness, which can only be gained by communion with the Divine Spirit. Our characters are incomplete, however, unless we manifest in all our dealings, the same brotherly kindness, which Christ manifested throughout His life on earth, which all true men possess."

"But even the life that has these characteristics, must have all rooted in love, just as we oftentimes hear the chorus of song, which does not thrill us, which gives to all the actors, thoughts and attitudes of that life, a deeper significance and a greater importance than they otherwise would have."

The sermon closed with an address to the class, particularly in treating its members to cultivate and manifest these characteristics throughout their lives, and assuring them that their greatest usefulness would be realized only when all these powers blend into one great harmonious chorus of power. Then and only then will the world love, respect and appreciate you.

An unusual number of alumni and friends of Hebron Academy came especially for the exercises, attending the formal transfer of the building. Hall to the trustees of the academy.

One was Deputy Collector Crockett of Marietta, Ga., formerly of Norway, Me. Coming to New York by his lonesome on a B. & O. train, Collector Crockett developed a sickness, he says. He had never been in New York before and therefore knew no physicians there. But the pain hurt as he got off the ferryboat in the evening, where he consulted a telephone directory to learn about hospitals.

"I looked 'em all over," Mr. Crockett said, "and finally I struck the Roosevelt Hospital. The nurse looked good to me. I went over a lot of streets and got there and they put me on a table and told me I had appendicitis and that really I ought to be operated on. 'And how long will that lay me up?' I asked. 'Some weeks,' they answered. 'And so I came out here and I couldn't very well miss the parade. I feel fine now. I think I only have malaria. I'm going to ride on Saturday if it kills me. But it won't.'"

Graduation Exercises.

Largest Class to Graduate From N. H. S. The graduating exercises of the class of 1910 were held at the Norway Opera House, Thursday evening. The class consists of 24 girls and 12 boys, making a class of 36 which is the largest class yet graduated from the Norway High School, and likewise the attendance at the exercises was the largest. The seats were nearly all sold long before Thursday evening. So large was the attendance that the seats were brought from Court Hall, and even then many were obliged to stand.

The stage was very prettily decorated with potted plants, bouquets, ferns and flowers, and evergreen along the footlights added much to the attractiveness of the stage.

Seated on the right of the stage were the school committee, Herman L. Horne, Judge William F. Jones and Dr. L. Hall. Truant; Rev. Merrill C. Ward and the superintendent of the exercises, Principal Percival E. Hathaway, Myrtle Blackwood, Caro Beverage and the Submaster, Blynn Allen.

At 8.20, Stearns' Orchestra started playing, and keeping time to the strains of music, the graduates were marched to their seats by their leader, Donald Partridge.

The young ladies were handsomely gowned in white, while the young men wore black suits and white ties. Each of the girls carried a bouquet of flowers, and several large bouquets.

The program opened with music by Stearns' Orchestra and was followed by prayer by Rev. M. C. Ward, pastor of the Universalist church.

Then followed music by the orchestra, and the Salutatory by Marion Anna LaFrance. Miss LaFrance extended a cordial welcome to the parents, friends and citizens, in behalf of the class of 1910 and thanked them for the many kindnesses and joys which they had surrounded them with during their school life.

"Our Navy's Great Wireless Tower," was the subject of Miss LaFrance's essay, which told of the system of wireless telegraphy that has been perfected by the United States Navy Department, so that battles fought 3,000 miles away can be directed by the Commanding Admiral and communications can be held secretly with our ships over all parts of the world.

A tremendous concrete tower is being erected at the Soldiers' Home at Washington, which is 600 feet high, where the operator, seated in a little room at the foot of the tower, can send and receive messages all over the world, thus knowledge of the happenings far away can be instantly learned.

"Music, The Universal Language," was the subject of Olivia Lulu Libby's essay. Miss Libby gave a brief history of music from its early days up through the centuries to the present time. Music is a universal language whereby all nations become closely connected, as music can be interpreted by all. Take music from the schools, the churches, the societies, one of the strongest links of the organization would be taken away. Music is a great inspirer, and is loved by all.

"The Importance and Advancement of Physical Culture in Schools," was given by Raymond Estes Brooks. He told how in the early history, physical culture was essential and that in the earlier schools of our time it was not regarded as important, but in later years it is regarded with favor by professors and teachers, and is taught in the schools and colleges. He explained the value of this culture in strengthening the body, and then the school on turn boys and girls into the world with stronger bodies, ready to start out on the journey of life.

Sometime, it is regarded, that physical culture will be required by all before they can procure a diploma of graduation from the High School and the colleges. Grace Eleanor Brown gave a sketch on "The Almighty Dollar," and of what it has done and what it will do. The almighty dollar talks, it is the center around which all else centers. It is everyone's friend, yet it is one's worst enemy at times. Everything has now come to be weighed by its worth in dollars and cents. At one time, poets, orators and men of great intellect were honored but now it is the man who has the largest amount of money, the multimillionaire, while the others go unhonored.

The class historian was Gladys Volesta Buck, who gave the history of the famous class of 1910, commencing in the fall of the year of 1909 when they came to the grammar school from the primaries. Nothing of marked importance happened while passing through the grades, except the hayrack rides, the usual socials and the picnics. At last the grades were passed, the high school was reached and outsiders joined the class and during these four years socials, hayrack parties, sleigh rides, hayrack rides and picnics were much enjoyed by the class. There have been held the usual exhibitions, speaking contests, and also several dramas have been staged. At the close Miss Buck gave the most striking characteristics of the members of the class.

Hartley Prentiss Greenleaf gave an essay on "The Paper Industry." He gave the different classifications of paper and the process by which they are made, speaking in particular in regard to the manufacture of rag paper. The rags are first stripped and put in tanks and cleansed, then chemicals added and in time it is in shreds. It is rolled, water marked and finally pressed, and is a good form of paper.

Minnie Leona Upton's essay was "The Importance of Self Possession." One does not have to be highly educated in order to have self possession. Self possession is brought about through training and by this training the whole body is subject to the will. This is of great importance to every individual and the more one trains himself along this line the more completely he will gain self possession.

The class prophet was Geneva Sturtevant, who implored the Three Fates who preside over the destinies of mankind to give to each an insight into their future careers. The Three Fates appeared, Eubel, Deana and Laura Bonney, Esther and Augusta Eastman, Mariel Palmer, Hattie and Lena Russell, Alice Tucker and Roger Eastman, Richard Palmer, Mrs. Rachel Tucker and Hattie Bonworth, were among those who attended the High school graduation at Buckfield, Thursday last week.

The sudden death of Dr. J. C. Caldwell of Buckfield, while attending patient at East Sumner, Friday the 17th, was a great shock to every one. Dr. Caldwell has been failing in health for several years but still kept up his practice. He was widely known and beloved. He was about 70 years of age.

YOUR BACKACHE WILL YIELD

To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Bloomdale, Ohio.—"I suffered from terrible headaches, pains in my back and right side, and was tired all the time and nervous. I could not sleep, and every month I could hardly stand the pain. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored me to health again and made me feel like a new woman. I hope this letter will induce other women to avail themselves of this valuable medicine."—Mrs. E. M. FREDERICK, Bloomdale, Ohio.

Backache is a symptom of female weakness or disease. If you have backache don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Nothing we know of will do this so safely and surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Cure the cause of these distressing aches and pains and you will become well and strong.

The great volume of unsolicited testimony constantly pouring in proves conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has restored health to thousands of women.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential, and the advice free.

Valedictory: "Higher Education for Women," was given by Ethel Mae Brown. It is remarkable when we stop to think how a few years ago a woman's education was regarded in comparison with the views taken at the present time and it is not impossible to overestimate the advantages of education for women. Many new vocations have presented themselves which women with education can ably occupy and thus earn a livelihood and not be dependant upon a husband or a scrub brush or the needle as in days gone by. In behalf of the graduating class Miss Brown extended words of appreciation to the superintendent, the school board and the teachers for the privileges they had received, and to the friends and parents for the help which they had given during their school life.

The superintendent, L. M. Felch, presented Ethel Mae Brown with the Don Seitz prize, and after addressing the class in words of appreciation and helpful advice the graduates were presented their diplomas.

The last number on the program was the class ode which was written and put to music by Daisy Deane Chase. We meet tonight to say farewell To happy school days over. No more to hear the silver bell Which called us to the door. Where oft we met our teachers dear To help us through the day With problems hard which brought us near In thoughts as we would say.

Chorus: Farewell, the parting hour draws near, Farewell, all sad partings and teachers true; As time bends her warning finger, We must leave the old school for the new. As we shall find in years to come, As through life's school we go, By acts alone success is won. Though hard the journey now, And as we leave our school days dear, The knowledge we've obtained Will serve us in our career, Through sunshine and through rain. May we, in future as in past, Be true to self and friend. As down the years we glide at last To the life that has no end. And when we reach the endless sea Beyond Time's muffled ear, May we feel indeed we have the key To the vast unknown before.

Peruna Secrets You Should Know

Golden Seal Root.

Golden Seal, the root of the above plant, is a very useful medicine. Many people gather it in our rich woodlands during the summer. Few people know how valuable it is in dyspepsia, catarrh, and as a general tonic.

Many thousand pounds of this root are used each year in the famous catarrh remedy, Peruna. This fact explains why everybody uses Peruna for catarrh.

Suggestions for the Housewife.

When soaking mackerel or other salt fish see that the skin is placed uppermost.

When making sweet croquettes add a little sugar to the crumbs in which the croquettes are to be rolled.

Celery can be much improved by soaking it for an hour in ice-cold water in which a lemon has been squeezed.

To clean a copper kettle, rub it with powdered bath brick and paraffin and polish with dry dust or whiting.

Fans greased with butter will make the bottom crust of pies soft and flaky and prevent them from being soggy.

All cups and jugs should occasionally be scrubbed round the handles with a well soaped brush. If this is not done they are apt to get a grimy appearance that is anything but appetizing.

To fold a man's coat, lay the coat out perfectly flat with the inside down. The sleeves should be spread out smoothly and then folded back to the elbow until each end of the sleeve is even with the collar. Fold the revers back and then double the coat over, folding it directly in the center seam, and then smooth it out carefully and lay in the drawer.

Experienced travellers have found great benefit by taking with them a bottle of Dr. Stry's Sassafras. It cures illness caused by impure water and sudden changes of climate.

A Warning.

The United States Department of Agriculture issued from Washington a circular from the Bureau of Plant Industry warning potato growers of the prevalence in many European countries of Black Scab, a new disease, and the danger of its introduction into this country through importations of the tubers.

The disease has appeared in Newfoundland and because of this fact is liable to be a special menace to Maine growers as the report is that some potatoes have already crossed the line.

In describing the disease which has been known as "wart disease," "black scab," "canker" and "couliflower," Prof. Upton says: "The disease attacks the tuber principally and consequently is not observed until harvesting time.

"In a bad attack of the disease big, dark warty excrescences, sometimes as large as the tuber itself, appear on its sides or ends. It consists of a mass of coral-like or more or less scabby excrescences or nodules, similar in appearance to the well-known crown or root gall of apples. Freed from the adherent earth the character of the growth becomes more apparent. It is not spongy and not detachable from the tuber. It is of a somewhat lighter color at the base and dotted with minute rusty brown spots over the surface.

"In an advanced stage of the disease the tubers are wholly covered with this growth and have lost all semblance to potatoes and have become a mass of ragged and edged excrescences.

"A still more advanced stage is when the fungus has utilized every particle of food stored in the tuber and has reduced it to a brownish-black soft mass giving off a very unpleasant and putrefactive odor.

"This is the most dangerous stage of the disease for the tubers cannot be harvested whole and they break in pieces, and the whole mass consisting almost entirely of spores of the fungus and wall cells, is broken up, the spores are liberated in millions and the land is badly infected for years.

"All infected potatoes should be boiled or burned. No part of any lot containing diseased potatoes should be used for seed purposes.

"If the disease is found on growing potatoes, heroic measures should be taken to eradicate the trouble by burning the entire lot and planting no more potatoes on that field for six or seven years."
